

The Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 27 { Entered at the Post Office at Janesville Wis., as second-class matter.

JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1883.

Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at 80¢ a Year.

NUMBER 43

Ex-President Hayes was in New York this week for two or three days on business, and the telegraph reports say that some of the "best" people in the city called on him at his hotel!

Mr. E. W. Keyes, of Madison, is prospering in business. He has begun the construction of a brick building on Pickney street, which will be 22 by 70, and three stories high. Since Mr. Keyes practically went out of politics, he has devoted his whole time to his private business, and the results are prosperity.

In the case of Jacob Baller against the Chicago & Northwestern railway company, for the burning of his house and barn by sparks from the company's locomotives, the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant. This was the third trial of the case, the first having taken place in 1873.

The superintendent of the United States assay office in New York, died on Wednesday morning, and in the afternoon his successor was appointed. This is thought to be undue haste, but probably the explanation is that the secretary of the treasury wanted the appointment settled before the grand army of office-seekers made a raid upon the treasury department.

A certain democratic paper wants Bayard nominated for the presidency in 1884, and this is the circumspection it adopts in expressing its preference: "The time has come when small states that breed great men should not be elbowed out of presidential conventions by big states to make way for commonplace men. It is the quality of the kernel that constitutes the virtue of the pea, not the size of the pod."

Ohio will not have the liquor question settled as easily as was supposed. The new law enacted by the legislature of that state provides for an annual tax of $200 on all places selling spirits and $100 on those selling malt liquors. A similar law was unconstitutional last year, and this one will at once be carried to the supreme court for adjudication. Its passage was opposed by the representatives from cities, but favored by those from rural communities.

It is very gratifying to know that the Delaware authorities are moving with promptness and earnestness in bringing to justice the outlaws who made a serious attack upon the employees of a circus at Dover, in that state. The affair was extremely disgraceful, and the timely conviction and sentence would have an excellent moral effect everywhere by showing such ruffians that while the law regulates amusements it also protects the people engaged in them.

To-day Ker, in the Star-route cases settled $600 worth of speech. The jury will be apt to find the talking attorneys guilty instead of the star-players.—Evening Wisconsin.

The Evening Wisconsin should be fair in its criticism on the government counsel. Mr. Ker is special government counsel, and is compelled to cover the entire case in his opening under the rules of the court, and any portion of the case missed by him cannot be argued by those who follow him. This is why he has taken the special pains to carefully cover the entire case in his opening argument.

The show license at Eau Claire has amounted to prohibition in the past, but a change has now taken place. The Free Press of that city says: "The great showmen of the country may be happy once more. The city of Eau Claire has again bid them 'welcome' by reducing the license from $500 to $100 and $150, according to circumstances. Eau Claire is the best city in the northwest for first-class canvas shows, and enterprising showmen will be prompted to avail themselves of the new order of things. We shall expect three or four creditable entertainments the coming summer. Bernum, Burr Robbins and the balance, are cordially invited."

The attention of the country should be called to the fact that General McClellan has finally entered Richmond. He had a fair opportunity to reach that city about twenty years ago, when he was backed by a fresh and powerful army, but he didn't want to intrude upon the ground held by the rebels, and so declined to make the attack. He thereby lost a grand opportunity to show the people that he was a strong union man and an able general. After twenty years, McClellan and a few friends took the cue and made an entry into the city, which was more pleasant and a little easier than in 1862.

Last Monday they had a brilliant gathering at Hamilton, Ontario, the occasion being the celebration of the anniversary of England's patron saint. One of the happiest speeches of the evening was made by the Hon. Frank Leland, the American consul, who responded to the toast of "The president of the United States." The Hamilton Times says he referred in eloquent terms to the recent celebration of the 25th anniversary of the laying of the Atlantic cable, which bound together in one great living bond the two greatest christian nations. The flag of England and America were on that occasion interwoven. This was a symbol of the interweaving of the two peoples. They were already united by the ties of commerce, consanguinity and friendship, and the time may come when the two greatest nations on earth may be united in reality.

It is reported from Washington that President Arthur has made the statement that he doesn't want a second term, and that the happiest day of his life will be when he retires from the presidency. That has been the experience of all the presidents of late years except one. General Grant left the white house with a good deal of deep, silent regret. The office did not give him any worry. He grew fat upon the perplexities of the dazzling position, and longed for a third term. He left all the concerns of the office in his boots when he went to bed at night, and gave them no thought till the next morning, and then did not allow his strong nature to be moved by them. Hayes was much like General Grant—cool, not in the least nervous, indifferent as to the feelings of others, and kept himself undisturbed by the constant and shameless raid of office-seekers. President Arthur has more of a tender nature about him, having nothing of the ice-burg qualities of Grant and Hayes.

NO DYNAMITE

Seems to be the Feeling of the Irish Convention.

Rossa in a Small Minority—The Division of Sentiment.

The Great Majority Favors the New League, But Nothing Effectuated Except Organization.

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The Chicago Times correspondent at Philadelphia telegraphs as follows: When the convention of Irishmen met in Horticultural hall yesterday there was not a man among them who had a clear idea where the thing would end. It was not until after 12 o'clock that the convention was called to order. Long before that hour delegates were to be found in little knots discussing the situation. O'Donovan Rossa, in a long white overcoat, got together a small crowd of admiring friends and talked dynamite and nitro-glycerine, and swore all sorts of things against England. Rossa didn't look in a very savage mood. He seemed to feel that his followers were in a small majority. When A. L. Love, the great advocate of universal peace, came in, the two men met face to face for the first time, but neither spoke. Love passed through an ante-room to the stage. John Kelly, the Tammany chieftain, circulated about the door exchanging greetings with Irishmen from all over the country. He was not a delegate. He delivered his lecture on Ireland in the Academy of Music last night. All the prominent Land-leaguers of Wednesday's convention were on hand, and in their wake were delegates from all sorts of Irish societies, nearly filling the body of the hall. When Thomas Brennan came in he was ap- plauded.

Promptly at noon Alexander Sullivan, of Chicago, appeared on the stage, and hanging on his arm was Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart Parrott. Mr. Sullivan said she was the mother of a family of patriots, and pretty nearly everybody cheered except Rossa, who slipped into a seat at the extreme right of the reporters' table, and read a paper while Mr. Sullivan rapped for order. He had been selected for the chair by the signers of the call for the meeting, and he combined wisdom, and prudence, and moderation, and was loudly cheered.

President Mooney, of the league, nominated Rev. Morris J. Dorney, of that city for temporary chairman, and Dorney was elected. By this time the most of the delegates were in their seats. From his position upon the platform, Mr. Dorney, in a雄伟的 voice, announced that the chair of a score or more of local delegations. On the floor, and divided off into delegations, were the representatives of the Irish societies of the union. Some of these were priests, some were nicely dressed gentlemen, some wore the unmistakable garb of the workingmen.

At this point Mr. Dorney had finished his speech, there was harmony. Then the fun began. Some noisy delegates in the rear had an altercation which was quickly quelled. Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for a chairman for the announcement of votes. This was a move against the dynamiters, and the idea was to bury all fiery resolutions in the resolutions committee. A hundred Irishmen jumped to their feet, calling for fair play. They denounced it as a "foul trick." Mr. Dorney, of New York, declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." The chairman of Philadelphia declared "It is all right, but it does not do any good." Then a man named Roffly, from Detroit, raised a fuss by calling the previous question on a resolution restricting delegates to five minutes, referring all resolutions back to him, and provided for

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 27.

The circulation of the Gazette is larger than the combined circulation of any five newspapers in Rock county.

WASHINGTON.

A Treasury Circular About Wool. The Civil Service Commission.

True Story of the President's Illness. A New Counterfeiter. Extradition of Dynamiters.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The treasury department has issued a circular to customs officers giving notice of a discovery that in some importations of wool into the United States the costs and charges specified in the invoices have been increased above the usual rates. It is possible that a similar practice may be resorted to in case of importations other than wool. The appraising officers are directed to scrutinize carefully the invoices, specifying the charges to be deducted from the invoice value, and if in any case they shall discover any departure with the invoices formerly presented, or in any other manner, that the charges have been unduly increased, they will make such additions to the market value as circumstances may render proper.

THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

Prof. Gregory, of the civil-service commission, will go to Chicago next week to look after the appointment of a local board of examiners and a room for their use. The local board of examiners will probably consist of three persons, and will hold office for a year. The commission has thus far arranged only for the examination of applicants for the lowest grades.

—that it, for places not worth more than $1,200. The examination at Chicago will be open alike for applicants for places in Washington and for places in the postoffice and custom houses in Chicago, but candidates will be required to state in their application of examination which of the two cities they want employment in. The law applies to postoffices and custom houses where more than fifty persons are employed. There are twenty-three postoffices of this class and eleven custom houses, but in many cases the postoffice and the custom house exist together, making a little less than thirty places where the examinations must be held with the same care as in the case of the postoffices.

Appointments in the department must be apportioned among the states in the ratio of population, so the the persons recommended to the position for appointment will not be those absolutely highest in the examination, but those from the state entitled to a proportionate share, which will be on the list. It is expected that the cabinet will decide to-day on the set of rules submitted to the president by the commissioners, and they will be at once made public if approved.

There is good authority for the statement that Prof. Tracy, the civil-service rules did not provide for the appointment of a member of the cabinet. They were regarded as altogether too complicated. It is expected that after considering them again to-day the cabinet will send them back to be entirely revamped.

THE PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS.

Dr. Black, surgeon of the Tallapoosa, was interviewed to-day regarding the president's illness, and talked very plainly about the matter. He was surprised to learn that any question had been raised about the seriousness of the attack, and described in detail his treatment and his anxiety. The president was suffering great pain when the doctor was called, and the latter administered an emetic, but the stomach was so sensitive that this was thrown up before it had its full effect. Then morphine was administered to quiet the stomach and reduce the pain. It had the first effect, but did not quiet the pain. An enema of warm water followed, which quieted the pain. After this the president had a chill, the skin being very cold and clammy. The symptoms were not those of a malarial, but of a congestive chill. The doctor, however, was not afraid of a congestive chill but of peritonitis. He worked for two hours, but was unable to find the cause of the trouble, and the president was extremely weak. Dr. Black says the president was a very sick man for a few hours.

CONDENSED NEWS.

The father of Gov. Foster, of Ohio, died at Eustis.

Sixteen men lost their lives by the bursting of a factory in Warsaw, Poland.

The president has engaged quarters at Fontaine Monroe, which he will go as soon as he can conveniently.

Odd Fellows throughout the United States celebrated the sixty-fourth anniversary of the establishment of the order in this country.

Bliss, the absconding bankrupt of Tonawanda, N. Y., left behind him debts amounting to $100,000. He is now at St. Catharines, Ont.

The ministers' state temperance convention of Kentucky has declared in favor of the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of spirituous liquors of all kinds.

Anton Urbanc, an insane inmate of the Cook county jail, leaped from a window to the sidewalk, a distance of twenty feet, and received injuries that will probably result fatally.

The wholesale clothing firm of Newburg, Frankel & Co., of Cincinnati, has made an assignment. The liabilities are estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000 and the assets at from $20,000 to $30,000.

The New Haven clock manufacturer was damaged by fire to the extent of $50,000, fully covered by insurance. At the village of Lodi, Wisconsin, property of the value of $3,000 or $20,000 was burned.

At Taunton, Mass., an actor named Paulding, playing Romeo, died a serious wound with his sword upon the Tybalt of the play, named George A. Dalton, in the course of the combat between the two characters.

The Norwegian Lutheran synod, in session at Madison, Wis., is exercised at the spread of the Calvinistic doctrine of predestination among members of its communion, and is considering measures to check the spread of the heresy.

Charlie McComas, who was captured by Apaches at the time of the murder of his parents in New Mexico, was subsequently killed by the savages because he was unable to keep up with them in their retreat to the mountains.

The Cuban government officially denies that the embargo has been removed from the importation of five specified brands of rum from the United States. These are to be sent to land brought into the country, to ascertain its genuineness.

Earthquake shocks were experienced in Chile on the 7th, 8th, and 27th of March. A large island in the Gulf of Darien, at the mouth of the river Atrato, has disappeared in consequence of the convolution. In principal cities of Chile a number of famous edifices were damaged.

The examination of the alleged dynamite conspirators of London, Birmingham, and Glasgow was concluded at the Bow street police court, London. A police inspector testified that in the month of March, 1881, he had offered himself as an informer, and related what Gallagher had told him regarding his connection with the conspirators, both in the United States and Great Britain. The movements of himself and others of the party, Gallagher said, had been directed by his master, Dr. Bigelow, who had paid him a good sum for his services. He was the only member of the dynamite school at New York.

Another witness testified regarding Whiteford's purchases of acids to use in the manufacture of nitro-glycerine at Birmingham. The examination was not concluded.

THE LANSING TRAGEDY.

LANSING, Mich., April 27.—The woman Frank Carr, otherwise wife No. 2 of A. Clark, late of Chicago, who was shot in the face by a revolver in the hands of Susan Thompson, or "wife No. 1" of the same man, has in a critical condition at Whiteford's boarding house, but is improving rapidly.

It is to be a case of life and death, and great indignation is expressed for the man, Clark, who appears to be a worthless wretch and the cause of all the trouble. No arrests are yet made, but Clark and his wife No. 1 are under surveillance, and parties are expected to bring the man to justice who will make complaints against him and see that justice is done him.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 27.—Mme. Fay's baguio on North street, in this city, was the scene of great excitement, occasioned by the attempted suicide of Blanche Hartson, a pretty blonde, who has only been in the place a few weeks. A difficulty occurred between her and her "friend," a proprietor of a leading restaurant, and since that she has appeared despondent. She was afterwards found in her room, in an unconscious condition, with an empty vial of laudanum by her side. A physician was called and proper restoratives administered, but it was several hours before she regained consciousness. She left a short time ago, and is en route to New York, where she will remain.

She has been communicating with a prominent minister in Philadelphia, and it is expected that he would come to Baltimore at once after his errand child, whom he supposed was visiting a friend in this city. The girl is addition to being exceedingly young and pretty, is highly accomplished, and speaks French, Spanish, and German fluently.

STATE LEGISLATURES.

Contest of the Illinois House Over General Appropriation Items -- Michigan's Solons.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 27.—Yesterday in the Senate after the public library bill, Gilligan's gravel road bill, and Clark's bill for preventing drunkenness were advanced to a third reading. Mason's bill giving purchasers of double lower berths in sleeping cars the right to say whether upper berths shall be opened or closed until sold, was passed.

In the house, a large number of important bills were introduced at the instance of the corporation, the consideration of the general appropriation bill was resumed. The sum of $8,000 for clerk fire to index the war records was strongly opposed. The Democrats asked that it be reduced to $1,500. The Republicans would not yield, and succeeded in bringing in another bill by breaking the quorum. At 3 o'clock an adjournment was forced.

MICHIGAN.

LANSING, Mich., April 27.—The senate yesterday passed some bills to regulate the management of, and to provide for a uniform rate for the transportation of freight upon railroads in the state, and to prevent unjust discriminations against local freight upon such roads; also, house bill to provide for the incorporation of grand and subordinate Temples of Honor.

The house passed house bills to prevent railroads from using their power to discriminate against public bodies having corporate power. The house joint resolution, submitting the prohibitory amendments to the people, passed by a vote of 37 to 34.

TEWKSBURY TROUBLES.

Testimony of an Expert--More Brutality Developed.

BOSTON, April 27.—Dr. G. A. Tucker, of Australia, an expert, had examined nearly all the insane asylums in the country and visited the insane ward of Tewksbury two weeks ago; saw every patient and found everything remarkably clean; found only seven persons to care for 200 patients, but was told the appropriation would allow no more; the inmates were neat and clean; thought it improper that female patients should have male attendants, which was one of the greatest evils at Tewksbury. Visitors would see that the "brutality" of the other experts was not more than that of the mode of treatment employed; constantly the mode of treatment there was the same as that employed at other institutions.

Cornelius O'Brien testified that he went to Tewksbury for a severe cold; patients who were unable to feed themselves were fed by the attendants, who had been beaten. When he was a nurse, sick an old man named Moran down the ward into his bed; had also seen the latter die in his bed for hours, and nearly choked to death by strangle; had known "French Joe," a partner in charge of the clothes-room, to sell his shoes to 25 cents, and when visitors threatened to strike for 25 cents, and get even with him, he struck the visitors who had come to him.

There are no heavy spectators. The largest is said to be in the neighborhood of $5,000. In person Mr. Handy is tall, dark featured, and is about fifty years old. He is restless, nervous, bold in his dealing, and a sort of "lunatic boy" in his methods. He is a man of great energy, and has a decided will, but the later part of his life has been rather poor.

Of course, Handy was the leading spirit of the firm, and its only "financial" support. Some weeks ago he tried to organize a bank move in May wheat, but he was too provident and careful to do so, and the bank failed, and went to the wall with the bank as he invested his money.

There are no heavy spectators. The largest is said to be in the neighborhood of $5,000. In person Mr. Handy is tall, dark featured, and is about fifty years old. He is restless, nervous, bold in his dealing, and a sort of "lunatic boy" in his methods. He is a man of great energy, and has a decided will, but the later part of his life has been rather poor.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed for his own home the house on Mount Auburn now known as the Shillito home; lead the second time, the Handy open house, on May street, after having withdrawn from a lottery and since purchased by the city of Boston. Finally, he turned his attention toward the erection of a magnificent residence in Clifton, above which, in his house, was a sheaf of wheat, emblem of the man in which he had obtained his wealth. But like all speculators he could not rest quietly, and returned to Chicago, and, as is the case, almost without exception, was lost.

Mr. Handy has had his ups and downs; has failed a number of times, but has fortunately managed to recover his lost vintage ground. It is somewhat in the nature of singular coincidence that in each of his failures he has been successful in his next attempt. He was just about completing his second attempt when he had his first success.

The first time he had just built and designed

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 27.

Notice to Subscribers.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE DAILY GAZETTE WHO DO NOT RECEIVE THEIR PAPER REGULARLY, WILL CONFER A FAVOR BY REPORTING OMISSIONS PROMPTLY AT THE GAZETTE COUNTING ROOM.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

TRAIN LEAVE.

For Chicago and East, via Beloit, 10:30 A.M. Rockford and Beloit, 11:15 A.M. 1:15 P.M. For Milwaukee, Chicago and East, 11:30 A.M. For Milwaukee, Chicago and East, 1:15 P.M. For Beloit, Rock Island and South West, 10:30 A.M. For Milwaukee, Rock Island and South West, 1:15 P.M. For Madison, Portage, La Crosse, Winona and St. Paul, 10:00 A.M. For Sioux City and St. Paul, 1:15 P.M. For Monroe, Mineral Point, Stillwater, Platteville, Brodhead and Albany, 1:15 P.M. 1:30 P.M. TRANS ARRIVE. From Chicago and East, via Beloit, 3:30 P.M. Rockford and Beloit, 3:45 P.M. From Milwaukee, Chicago and East, 7:10 P.M. From Beloit, Rock Island and South West, 5:00 A.M. 7:10 P.M. From Madison, Portage, La Crosse, Winona and St. Paul, 10:15 A.M. From Madison, Platteville, Brodhead and Albany, 1:30 P.M. WM. D. NOYES, Agent, A. V. H. CARPENTER, Gen'l. Pass'r. A.C.

RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

Chicago & Northwestern.

Trains at Janesville Station.

GOING NORTH. Depart.

Day Express, 1:40 P.M. 1:45 P.M.

Fond du Lac passenger, 8:45 P.M. 8:45 P.M.

GOING SOUTH. Depart.

Day Express, 12:35 P.M. 1:30 P.M.

Fond du Lac passenger, 4:35 A.M. 7:00 A.M.

AYTON BRANCH.

ARRIVE.

From Chicago, Rockford and Beloit, 1:25 P.M.

From St. Paul, Madison, 10:30 A.M.

From Chicago, Rockford, Beloit, Madison, Winona, and St. Paul, 1:30 P.M.

From Chicago, Beloit, also Madison, and Winona, 1:35 P.M.

From Madison, St. Paul, 3:30 A.M.

From Beloit, 3:45 A.M.

From Beloit, Rockford and Beloit, 4:15 P.M.

For Chicago, Beloit, 1:15 P.M.

For Madison, Winona and St. Paul, 2:25 P.M.

For Beloit, Winona, and St. Paul, 3:45 P.M.

For Beloit, 4:45 P.M.

(Daily) except Monday.

(Daily) except Saturday.

All other trains daily except Sunday.

M. HUGGETT, Gen'l. Sup't. H. STENNETT, General Passenger Agent.

To REST.—First house south of Central school. Enquiry of J. F. Hart.

Tobacco LAND—to let, on shares—A few acres on I. C. Sloan's farm.

L. A. MOSHER.

You can save from $1 to $10 by buying your silk dolmans at Archie Reid's.

MATTRESSES of all kinds ranging in price from $2.50 to $55, at the new mattress factory opposite the Myers house. Call and see me.

TICKETS for the Burr Robbins circus, for the benefit of the free library, are now on sale at the stores.

Now is the time to leave your orders for ice. Prices for 1883—From May 1 to October, 25 lbs. per day, $5.00; 30 lbs. $6.00; 35 lbs. $7.00. Washed and put in boxes as usual. Orders left at King's bookstore or at my house, No. 2 South Jackson street, will receive prompt attention.

J. H. GATELEY.

Coal and Wood.

Willimington association, per ton, $4.00. Indiana block, 4.50. Ohio central, 4.75. All sizes hard coal, 7.25. Best maple wood, per cord, 6.50.

At these prices must have cash on delivery. CLARK & HURD.

See the new goods at Archie Reid's.

PLEASE PAY UP.—All accounts due the Gazette Printing company previous to January 1, 1883, are now past due, and immediate payment is desired, so that the books can be closed. Do not delay.

COLVIN & FARNWORTH.

A full line of sample corsets at half price, at Archie Reid's.

ONE HUNDRED light jackets and dolmans; seventy-five fine silk garments, all the latest and best styles, at very low prices—just received at Archie Reid's.

Notice:

The Janesville Cotton Manufacturing Company, until further notice, will receive, at its office in this city, subscriptions for a new issue of its capital stock at par, payable in such installments as shall be required by its board of directors.

A. J. RAY, Secretary.

Janesville, March 15, 1883.

FOR SALE.—A large number of Rock county farms, desirable city residences and some business property in the city. Some of which will be sold at speculation prices.

H. H. BLANCHARD.

All kinds of upholstering done in the best of style on short notice at R. H. Morris' opposite the Myers house.

FOR SALE.—The Winans homestead of 8 acres, on Milton avenue. Apply to John Winans.

FOR SALE.—House and lot corner of Terrace and Rayne streets, first ward—fine location; a good variety of fruit trees; also, fine elm and other shade trees. The house contains seven rooms, hard finished, with good cellar and cistern; also, good barn; lot nine rods square. Will be sold at a bargain. Apply to N. C. PALMERTON, 89 West Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

You can have your old wool or hair mattresses made as good as new by having them repicked and renovated at the Huske new patent picker and renovator, at the new mattress factory on East Milwaukee street, opposite Myers' opera house.

R. H. MORRIS.

ANAL.—Dentists who have tried "Tea Party," pronounce it the finest thing on the face of this earth for the teeth and breath. 25 and 20 cents. Sold by Prentiss & Evans.

Ice! Ice! We will furnish ice during the coming season, delivered the same as heretofore, as follows: 25 pounds a day for the season, $5.00. All other amounts as low as sold by any other parties.

HOGSBORO & ATWOOD.

THE LARGEST and finest assortment of Hair goods ever brought to Janesville, can be seen at Mrs. William Saddler's opera house block.

Briggs.

—Miss Allie Stoddard has our thanks for a beautiful bouquet.

—Mrs. J. W. Birth's musical and literary entertainment will be given in Lappin's music hall on Friday evening, May 4th.

—The Odd Fellows who attended the celebration in Edgerton yesterday and last evening, have returned home and report having had a good time.

—The Odd Fellows' party at Apollo hall last evening was well attended, and all enjoyed a social evening. Tuckwoods band furnished excellent music for the occasion.

—The examination of Tom Dorsey, charged with robbing Andrew Jennings on Saturday night was concluded in the municipal court this morning, the defendant being held for trial.

—A divorce case, Steele vs Steele, was before the circuit court this afternoon, Judge Bennett presiding. The parties are residents of this city. No decision rendered at three o'clock.

—The members of the Janesville Guards and the broom brigade enjoyed a social hour at the Guards' armory last evening, after the drill. The two corps joined hands, and indulged in a little dance, the music being furnished by Mrs. J. W. Birth.

—The Gazette hopes that our citizens will heed the suggestions offered by Dr. Whiting and published in this paper yesterday. The doctor is alive to the importance of clearing the streets and alleys as a sanitary measure, and the people should not delay in carrying out his recommendations.

—Christine Kuppenburg, of Janesville, began work in the Times office last week, to fill the place vacated by Etta Redford, who was obliged to retire on account of ill-health. Christine is widow, and seems interested in her work, and we predict that she will be quite successful in her labors, and fully meet the expectations of those interested. —Dem. Free Times.

—Mr. N. Cushing, proprietor of the meat market on North Main street, has been down in Illinois purchasing fat cattle for his market. He succeeded in procuring a herd of fine fat Galloway steers, which will furnish choice meat for his market for some time. He says there is now no danger of making a mistake by cutting sirloin stakes near the horns, but all will be served with the best they desire.

—Major F. F. Stevens has purchased the lot on the corner of South Second and Bluff streets, in the third ward, opposite Mr. Rager's residence, and will build a handsome house thereon during the summer, which will be for rent. We also learn that Mr. Fenner Kimball contemplates building a Swiss cottage on the opposite corner.

—Mr. N. Frederick and Mr. Harry Carter have kindly offered to furnish carriages for the ladies who have been canvassing the city for the sale of tickets for the benefit performance, to carry them to and from the circus grounds next Monday evening. The ladies will be notified in due time when and where to meet on Monday evening before the performance begins.

—Mr. Wilbur Hurst, an employee in the cotton factory, met with a severe accident at eight o'clock last evening, by which he lost the little finger of his right hand. He was working one of the machines, when his finger was caught in a gear wheel, and so terribly mangled that amputation at the middle joint was necessary. He was taken to the office of Dr. D. Robinson, who, with the assistance of Dr. St. John, performed the operation, and the patient is now doing well.

—At three o'clock yesterday afternoon death relieved the sufferings of the little six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Taylor, of the first ward. He had suffered from paralysis for nearly two years, losing the use of his limbs. In this sad affliction the bereaved parents will receive the sympathy of all. The funeral will be held at the family residence, No. 50 Chatham street, on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. D. F. Davies, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating.

—One of the attractions of Burr Robbins Great American and German Allied show, which will not be announced on the large show and picture bills the coming season, is a litter of four cub lions which the keeper of the lions found in her den this morning. The little cubs will be a great curiosity in the show this season, and one that will amuse the little people who visit the great menagerie. It will be an attraction of which but few shows can boast.

—There was a large gathering at the roller skating rink last night, and the programme afforded much amusement for the spectators. Will Delaney won the silver cup in the obstacle race. The art of crawling through barrels, jumping benches, stepping down a ladder, and so on, with roller skates on the feet, was exceedingly difficult, and the slipping, tumbling and rolling, created much sport for the audience. The obstacle race will be repeated on Saturday evening. The new programme will be carried out this evening.

—There was a large gathering at the roller skating rink last night, and the programme afforded much amusement for the spectators. Will Delaney won the silver cup in the obstacle race. The art of crawling through barrels, jumping benches, stepping down a ladder, and so on, with roller skates on the feet, was exceedingly difficult, and the slipping, tumbling and rolling, created much sport for the audience. The obstacle race will be repeated on Saturday evening. The new programme will be carried out this evening.

—The mother of Hartley Clifford, the murderer, has been interviewed in regard to the decision of the supreme court, and this is what she said: "Everybody at Janesville said the verdict was unjust on the evidence, and that Hardy had done the shooting in self-defense was clearly proven. He is no murderer, and never had murder in his heart. Capt. Clegg was the aggressor and Hardy was assaulted, provoked, harassed and frightened, scarcely knowing what he did; all this was clearly proven at the trial, for I was there and heard every word. Mr. Ebbets was positive that a favorable decision would be rendered, and we have arranged with John Winans, of Janesville, to assist him get a second trial. Janesville people are sure that a new trial will result very differently, perhaps resulting in Hardy's acquittal."

—Marshal Johnson, went down to Janesville last Friday in search of a party suspected of perpetrating the robbery at the residence of Gottlieb Mack, mention of which was made in last week's issue. The suspicion of parties was aroused against the suspect from the fact that he was met on the street about 1 o'clock on the night of the robbery and being unable to give a satisfactory account of his conduct. He is a tough customer; generally visiting this city every cattle fair day and opens out a wheel of torture on the streets. He was also known to be in possession of the location of Mr. Mack's house and has herefore been suspected in connection with thefts that have occurred about the city on cattle fair day. The marshal "freed his soon" at Janesville and he has searched to no effect and finally upon a telegram from Mr. Mack let him go as enough evidence could not be obtained to secure his conviction. "Bob" is confident however he had his paws on the guilty party. —Jefferson Banner.

BADLY BURNED.

Little Lizzie Holland Badly Burned While Playing Around Burning Rubber.

This forenoon about half-past ten o'clock, while Little Lizzie Holland, daughter of Mr. George Holland, who resides on the corner of Hickory and North Fourth streets, in the second ward, was playing with several other little girls and boys around a pile of burning rubbish in a vacant lot some thirty rods east from her home, her clothes accidentally took fire, and before assistance could be reached, she was terribly burned. When the little girl discovered her clothes to be on fire she started on a run for her home, the wind fanning the fire into a blaze. Upon nearing the gate to the door yard, her awful situation was discovered by one of the neighbors, a lady who chanced to be in the yard, who took up a pail of water, throwing it upon the little child, and then assisted in taking off the burning garments and putting out the fire. Mr. A. C. Kent, who was at his home near by, immediately came down town and called Dr. W. H. Judd, who repaired to the scene and rendered all the necessary aid. Her entire left side is burned in a horrible manner, her hip being cooked; the left arm is also burned deep, while the greater portion of her body is more or less scorched. Her clothing was nearly all burned upon the body. After receiving the treatment from Dr. Judd, the unfortunate little one appeared to rest as comfortably as could be expected.

Mr. Holland is employed in the cotton factory, and but recently arrived in this city with his family from Chicago. He lost one of his children in England from being scalded.

This sad accident is but another terrible warning to parents. They cannot be too careful in allowing their little children to play with fire.

MR. H. CUSHION, proprietor of the meat market on North Main street, has been down in Illinois purchasing fat cattle for his market. He succeeded in procuring a herd of fine fat Galloway steers, which will furnish choice meat for his market for some time. He says there is now no danger of making a mistake by cutting sirloin stakes near the horns, but all will be served with the best they desire.

Major F. F. Stevens has purchased the lot on the corner of South Second and Bluff streets, in the third ward, opposite Mr. Rager's residence, and will build a handsome house thereon during the summer, which will be for rent. We also learn that Mr. Fenner Kimball contemplates building a Swiss cottage on the opposite corner.

—Mr. N. Cushing, proprietor of the meat market on North Main street, has been down in Illinois purchasing fat cattle for his market. He succeeded in procuring a herd of fine fat Galloway steers, which will furnish choice meat for his market for some time. He says there is now no danger of making a mistake by cutting sirloin stakes near the horns, but all will be served with the best they desire.

—Mr. Wilbur Hurst, an employee in the cotton factory, met with a severe accident at eight o'clock last evening, by which he lost the little finger of his right hand. He was working one of the machines, when his finger was caught in a gear wheel, and so terribly mangled that amputation at the middle joint was necessary. He was taken to the office of Dr. D. Robinson, who, with the assistance of Dr. St. John, performed the operation, and the patient is now doing well.

—At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 34 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy, wind southerly. At one p.m. the register was 70 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with a westerly wind.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The following are the indications for to-day:

Lake Region—Slightly warmer, partly cloudy weather, light local rains, southwesterly to westerly winds, stationary or low pressure.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

DEMOCRATIC STUMBLING BLOCKS.

CINCINNATI, April 27.—The Enquirer's correspondent at Indianapolis telegraphs: "Hon. John M. Butler, Senator McDonald's law partner, is a Republican, and good liberal thinker. Speaking to-day of Governor Hendricks' interview on the tariff, he said: 'Governor Hendricks is nearer a Republican than a Democrat if he is reported correctly, while Mr. McDonald is on the platform of 1890—that is, a tariff for revenue only, with incidental protection. Thus the Democrats are all torn up on that question, as they are on every other. When that case was called, Zemanski failed to appear and the lady was released. That affair created quite a sensation here, and Miss Milner was as prostrated over the matter as to be unable to appear again on that question, and that might be called dynamite. The Democrats must endorse the dynamite Communists, or lose the Irish vote entire, and the Communistic element of other foreigners. The men who would strike out in the East and in the West have up to now been the most popular. The national convention will have to stand upon this question. While many people think the Democracy will have a walk-over in 1884, I confess I don't think they can by any possibility elect their man."

ARRESTS for the Murder of the Ward Boys.

LAKEMORE, Dak., April 27.—In the Ward brothers' murder case thirteen arrests have been made. Five of the prisoners have been lodged in the government guard-house at Fort Totten. Among the parties arrested are Cavin G. Ulmer, William C. Farrington, Hugh Maloney, William L. Durbin, Dennis George, Carpenter, Thomas Burke, Brigham Lair and Charles Cole.

READJUSTING PASSENGER RATES.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The railroad passenger agents and managers met again yesterday for discussion of the proposed readjustment of passenger rates. It is understood that it has been finally determined that a readjustment shall be made, and that the only question now at issue are those of detail. It is believed the question will be settled this afternoon, and that the contract entered into last October will be formally renewed.

MEMORIAL DAY in the South.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 27.—Yesterday was Memorial day, and there was an immense concourse at the cemetery. A poem was read and an address made by Alva Fitzpatrick. A letter from Jefferson Davis regretting his inability to be present was read.